Gospel Message

In today's Gospel (Luke 11:14–26), Jesus heals a man who was possessed by a demon and unable to speak. His victory over demons is a sign that the Kingdom of God has come among us.

This Gospel offers us three important lessons.

First, Jesus is stronger than every power of evil. He is the "stronger one" who conquers Satan, sin, and death. Even today, we experience many forms of spiritual bondage—anger, pride, addictions, jealousy, fear, and selfishness. Christ alone can free us. Through prayer, the Holy Eucharist, the Sacrament of Reconciliation, and faith in Him, we receive the grace to overcome these struggles.

Second, Jesus calls us to make a clear choice. He says, "Whoever is not with me is against me." There is no neutral ground in the Christian life. Every day we choose either Christ or the values of the world. Our faith must be lived not only in church but also in our homes, workplaces, and communities through love, honesty, forgiveness, and service.

Third, Jesus warns us not to leave our hearts empty. After an evil spirit leaves, it can return if the house remains empty. It is not enough to give up sinful habits; our hearts must be filled with God's presence. Daily prayer, reading Scripture, participating in the Holy Qurbana, receiving the sacraments, and performing acts of charity keep our hearts open to the Holy Spirit and protect us from falling back into sin.

Dear friends, today's Gospel reminds us that Jesus is the victorious Lord who offers true freedom. Let us invite Him to reign in our hearts every day. May our lives be filled with His grace so that there is no room for evil, but only for faith, hope, and love.
