Gospel Message

Dear brothers and sisters, dear parents and children,

In today's Gospel, Jesus tells us something very important: "Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away." He also reminds us that no one knows the day or the hour of His coming. Jesus is not trying to frighten us. He is simply telling us: Be ready. Live each day with God.

A mother once told her children, "I am going out for a while. I don't know exactly when I will return. Please finish your homework and keep the house in order."

At first, the children obeyed. But after some time, one child thought, "Mom won't come back soon," and started playing. Another child finished the homework and did what the mother had asked. Suddenly, the door opened. Mom was home!

One child became nervous. The other ran happily to welcome her. What was the difference? One was ready. That is the message Jesus gives us today. We do not know when the Lord will come, but we know how we should live while we wait.

Parents, your children learn about God first from you. They may learn prayers in Sunday School, but they learn the meaning of prayer by watching you pray. They may learn about forgiveness from the Bible, but they understand forgiveness when they see Mom and Dad saying, "I am sorry" and "I forgive you."

The greatest gift parents can give their children is not money, education, or material comfort. These are important, but they cannot last forever. The greatest gift is faith—a living relationship with Jesus.

Dear children, you also can prepare for Jesus every day. You don't need to do extraordinary things. Pray every day. Obey and respect your parents. Be kind to your brothers and sisters. Tell the truth. Help someone who needs you. Participate sincerely in Holy Mass. And when you make a mistake, have the courage to say, "I'm sorry."

Sometimes we think, "I will become closer to God later. I will pray more when I am older. I will change tomorrow."

But Jesus reminds us: The time to love God is today. Imagine if every family in our parish practiced just three things: Pray together. Forgive quickly. Love generously.

Our homes would become different. Our children would become different. Our parish would become different.

Parents, your children may forget many of the words you tell them, but they will remember seeing you kneel down and pray.

Children, you may not understand all the sacrifices your parents make for you today. But one day, you may realize that their prayers and sacrifices were among the greatest gifts God gave you.

So the important question is not, "When will Jesus come?"

The important question is, "If Jesus comes today, will He find love in my heart? Will He find prayer in my home? Will He find forgiveness in my family?"

Let us make our families ready for Jesus—not with fear, but with love. And whenever the Lord comes, may we be able to welcome Him with joy and say:

"Jesus, welcome. We were waiting for You."
