Gospel Message

My dear parents and children,

We prepare carefully for many things. Children pack their schoolbags before school. Parents prepare meals, arrange appointments, and plan for the family's needs. Today Jesus asks us: "Are you also preparing your heart for me?"

In today's Gospel, ten young women wait for the bridegroom. All ten have lamps, but only five bring extra oil. When the bridegroom arrives, the difference becomes clear: some are ready, while others are unprepared.

Imagine a family preparing for a storm. A child finds a flashlight and says, "Mom, we are ready!" But when the electricity goes out, the flashlight does not work. There are no batteries inside! The flashlight looked ready, but something essential was missing.

Our faith can sometimes be like that flashlight. We may have a Bible at home, wear a cross, and attend church. These are good things. But Jesus invites us to let our faith shape the way we live. What is the oil that keeps our faith burning? We can think of it as our daily friendship with God, nourished through prayer, kindness, forgiveness, and love.

Dear parents, your children learn faith by watching you. When you pray with them, apologize after losing your temper, forgive one another, and make time for someone who needs help, you show them what friendship with Jesus looks like. A simple prayer together before bedtime can become a precious memory that strengthens their faith for years.

Dear children, you also have oil to bring! Every time you tell the truth, help at home, include someone who feels lonely, or say, "I am sorry," you are answering Jesus with love. You do not have to wait until you are grown up to become holy.

The Gospel also reminds us that some things cannot be done for us. Parents can teach their children to pray, but each child must learn to speak to Jesus personally. We can encourage one another, but each of us must respond to God.

This week, let us make one small family commitment: pray together each day, and do one loving thing for one another.

We do not know when Jesus will call us. But we can welcome him today—in our homes, in our prayers, and in the people around us.

Lord Jesus, keep the lamp of faith burning in our families. Help us to be ready to welcome you with hearts full of love. Amen.
